

The figure consists of 10 sub-diagrams arranged in two rows of five. Each sub-diagram shows a set of points (dots) on a grid. The points are arranged in a way that suggests a sequence of transformations or a process of growth. The points are colored black or white. The sequence starts with a simple grid of points and evolves into a more complex, interconnected structure.

